

Appendix Table 1Utilisation of Victorian Canola Seed Production, 2001/02

Victorian canola seed production,	Tonnes
of which	355,000
• crushed in Victoria	106,550
• whole grain consumed in Vic	10,000
• farmer saved seed	350
• grain exports	238,100

Source: Derived from ACIL Tasman and Farm Horizons (2003, Table 5)

Appendix Table 2

Tariff Rates on Canola Products, Selected APEC Economies

		HS Code	Description
	1205 + Canola seed	1208+ Canola meal	1514+ Canola oil
Japan	Free	7%	11-20.70 yen/kg
China	In-quota 0 Out-quota 40% General 80%	In-quota 9% Out-quota 40% General 70-80%	In-quota 20% Out-quota 100% General 170%
Korea	10%	3%	crude oil 10% Refined oil 30%
Taiwan	9%	10%	15%
USA	0.69cents/kg	1.9%	6.8%

Source: APEC Tariff Database (available at www.apecsec.org.sg)

Notes 1. The Harmonised System code for the tariff items is given at the 4-digit level. + indicates that the actual tariff rate for imports is specified at the 6-, 8-, or 10-digit level, varying from country to country. For some specialised products such as canola used in the manufacture of rubber products, or denaturised canola, there are different rates in some countries. These have been ignored.

2. The rates are the MFN rates. In some countries, imports from certain sources enter at lower preferential rates.

Appendix Table 3Stakeholder Organisations Consulted by the Independent Reviewer

- ABB
- AWB
- Cargill
- Graincorp
- Gene Ethics Network
- Network of Concerned Farmers
- Australian Honey Bee Ind Council
- Biological Farmers of Australia
- Organic Federation of Australia
- Greenpeace
- Australian Oilseeds Federation
- AVCARE
- Bayer Crop Science
- Gene Technology Grains Committee
- Ridley Corporation
- United Dairy Farmers of Victoria
- VFF Grains Council
- VFF

Explanatory Note: The Independent Reviewer wished to consult with groups of key stakeholders to ask them specific questions relating to his inquiry and to enable the organisations to point out any new relevant information that had come to light after the previous round of consultations undertaken by ACIL Tasman and Farm Horizons. All stakeholders that were consulted in the first round of reviews were sent a letter inviting them to meet with the Independent Reviewer. The table lists all of those who responded.

REFERENCES

- ACIL Tasman and Farm Horizons (2003), Genetically Modified Canola: Market Issues, Industry Preparedness and Capacity for Segregation in Victoria, November. Cabinet-in-Confidence.
- Agriculture and Environment Biotechnology Commission (UK) (2003), GM Crops? Coexistence and Liability, Department of Trade and Industry, London.
- Australian Bureau of Agricultural and Resource Economics (ABARE) (2003a), Agricultural Biotechnology: Potential for Use in Developing Countries, ABARE, Canberra.
- Australian Bureau of Agricultural and Resource Economics (ABARE) (2003b), Market Access Issues for GM Products: Implications for Australia, ABARE, Canberra.
- Australian Oilseeds Federation (2003), Proposal for a Coexistence Demonstration, submitted by Australian Oilseed Federation on behalf of the Industry Taskforce.
- Australian Pesticides and Veterinary Medicines Authority (APVMA) (2003), Glyphosate in the Product Roundup Ready Herbicide by Monsanto, Report No. 4, APVMA, Canberra.
- Bayer CropScience Pty Ltd and Monsanto Australia Ltd (2003), Submission to the Independent Chairperson, Victorian Government GM Canola Market Impact Review, November.
- Cameron, J. (1999), "The Precautionary Principle" in G. P. Sampson and W. B. Chambers (eds.), Trade, Environment and the Millennium, United Nations University Press, Tokyo.
- Charnowitz, S. (2003), "Improving the Agreement on Sanitary and Phytosanitary Standards" in G. P. Sampson and W. B. Chambers (eds.), Trade, Environment and the Millennium, United Nations University Press, Tokyo.
- Department of Agriculture, Fisheries and Forestry – Australia (AFFA) (2003), Liability Issues Associated with GM Crops in Australia, AFFA, Canberra.
- Department of Innovation, Industry and Regional Development (2000), Biotechnology Strategic Development Plan for Victoria. This can be downloaded at www.biotechnology.vic.gov.au.
- Food Standards Australia New Zealand (FSANZ) (2000), Final Risk Analysis Report. Application A363. Report No. 05/02.
- Food Standards Australia New Zealand (FSANZ) (2001), Final Assessment Report. Application A372. Report No. 05/02.

- Foster, M. (2003), "GM Canola. What are its Economics under Australian Conditions?", Australian Grains Industry 2003, ABARE, Canberra.
- Gene Technology Grains Committee (GTGC) (2003), Canola Industry Stewardship Principles for Coexistence of Production Systems and Supply Chains, GTGC, July. This can be downloaded from the website www.avcare.or.au.
- Kershen, D. L. (2002), "Legal Liability in Agricultural Biotechnology", National Center for Agricultural Law Research and Information, University of Arkansas School of Law.
- Linacre, N. and D. MacLaren (2003), "Risk Assessment and Management under Australia's Gene Technology Act", University of Melbourne.
- New Zealand Law Commission (2002), Liability for Loss Resulting from the Development, Supply or Use of Genetically Modified Organisms, Wellington.
- Norton, R. (2003), Conservation Farming Systems and Canola, The University of Melbourne.
- Office of the Gene Technology Regulator (OGTR) (2003a), Risk Assessment and Risk Management Plan, Commercial Release of Genetically Modified (InVigor[®] Hybrid) Canola. DIR 021/2002, 18 December 2003.
- Office of the Gene Technology Regulator (OGTR) (2003b), Risk Assessment and Risk Management Plan, General Release of Roundup Ready[®] Canola (Brassica Napus) in Australia. DIR 020/2002, October 2003.
- Organic Federation of Australia (1999), Submission to the House of Representatives Inquiry into Primary Producer Access to Gene Technology.
- Productivity Commission (2002), Modelling Possible Impacts of GM Crops on Australian Trade, Staff Research Paper, October, Productivity Commission, Canberra.
- State Government of Victoria (2001), Genetic Engineering-free Zones, Report of the Victorian Government Consultation, Department of natural Resources and Environment.
- West Australian Department of Agriculture (2003), Assessment of the International Markets for Genetically Modified Canola, Department of Agriculture, Perth.